

AAKG

AAKG - or Arginine alpha-ketoglutarate - is a pre workout supplement that consists of salt from the amino acid arginine, which helps boost nitric oxide to increase blood flow (and hence oxygen and nutrients) to your muscles. Indeed, many athletes use AAKG as a pre workout supplement because they really do believe that it helps them to perform longer and gain better results. So if you take AAKG then you too should see increased muscle pumps, and as a result, more muscle mass. AAKG also helps your liver break down ammonia, a by-product of exercise, and this can also help you perform better. At protein King we are careful to only stock the best brands of AAKG like Body Ripped and Gen-Tec. In addition to this we ship faster than any other online retailer to anywhere in Australia, and our prices are some of the cheapest you can find. So get your AAKG pre workout supplement today and boost your performance to new levels.